

Lloyd Library & Museum News

The Lloyd Library & Museum is accepting applications for the Curtis Gates Lloyd Fellowship. This signature program offered yearly provides stipends for research at the Lloyd Library & Museum. Research topics may include, but are not limited to, plant science, history of medicine, ethnobotany and art. Application deadline is February 1, 2018. For further information, click here.

FOTOFOCUS

The Lloyd Library & Museum has been selected as a 2018 FotoFocus venue. We join the Cincinnati Art Museum, Dick Waller's Art Place, the 21c Museum Hotel, and other esteemed institutions celebrating this year's theme, Open Archive--what a perfect fit! In addition, the Lloyd is a proud recipient of grant funding from FotoFocus to assist with programming and exhibition production. Working in collaboration with the Cincinnati Book Arts Society, the Lloyd's exhibition, titled Digging Deep into the Archives: Lloyd Library Inspired Artist Books, will showcase works based on Lloyd collections. Watch for more information about this exhibition opening fall 2018.

Fellowship Lecture: A History of Parasitic Plants

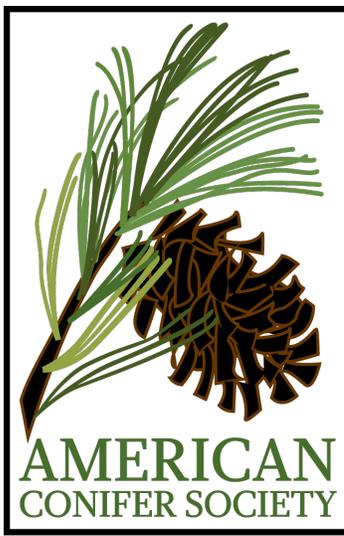

Thursday, January 18, 6-8 p.m.

Take a historical journey through scientific literature and botanical art of medicinal parasitic plants found around the world with Susan Leopold, Lloyd Fellow and Executive Director of United Plant Savers. Learn how understanding these plants coincided with the scientific study of parasites in the human body, and the implications related to the plants' role in ecology.
