FotoFocus Awards Grant to the Lloyd Library & Museum for 2020 Exhibition

The Lloyd Library and Museum is honored to announce its participation in FotoFocus 2020 Biennial and accompanying grant support from FotoFocus. Through this month-long celebration of photography in October, museums, artists and educators will engage the community through exhibitions and events focused around a common theme, light &. This is the Lloyd Library's fourth year as a participating FotoFocus venue.

Through the Lens of Nature Prints, to be held at the Lloyd Library, is a collaboration with photographers Rick Conner and TJ Vissing. The exhibition will feature nature prints and showcase nature photography of central Ohio. In nature printing the artist applies ink or pigment to a natural object and then places a piece of paper over the object, creating an impression. The result is a radiant image that captures the subtle and graceful beauty of nature. The nature photography of Rick Conner and TJ Vissing illuminates scenes from dawn to dusk. Their work tells the story of how light weaves its magic through the amazing natural areas of central Ohio. The convergence of these artistic mediums will enlighten the eyewitness to the many levels of light found in the arts of nature printing and photography.

The FotoFocus grant to the Lloyd Library and Museum will aid in the production and installation of the exhibition. Grant money will also support programs including an opening reception and gallery walk, writing workshop, photographers' lecture and nature print workshop.
