

Lloyd Library & Museum News

COVID-19 has ushered in a virtual world. The Lloyd Library has always had a local and global audience. Today, we are increasing activities to engage both groups from a "distance," as we roll out a new podcast series, more digital resources, enhanced remote reference services, and interactive exhibits online. We will also be presenting our first virtual event. Keep watching as we bring Lloyd resources, programs and services outside the library walls.

COVID-19's Impact on Integrative Health & Wellness

When: August 12, 7-8 p.m.
Where: Virtual Program

Join Holistic Clinical Pharmacist Dr. Cathy Rosenbaum online as she discusses the shift toward combining the external, physical and technological successes of healthcare with the exploration of healing and disease prevention models. Following the presentation, attendees will have the opportunity to discuss the impact of several areas of integrative intervention on post-COVID-19 quarantine life. Reservations required. Rare Botanical Volumes Now Digitized

One of the favorites of the Lloyd is the six-volume set Herbarium Blackwellianum by Elizabeth Blackwell, published circa 1750, and features hand-colored illustrations of garden vegetables and medicinal plants alike. The first four volumes are now available to browse online and we hope to have the entire set available online soon. Blackwell and other women naturalists and artists are featured in the digital exhibit Women and Nature. Just in time for summer, the illustration of a peach is pictured at left.

Support the Lloyd with New Payment Options

The generous support of donors and members enables us to continue to deliver resources, share information and bring you the beauty of Lloyd materials. Your support is invaluable. Joining the Lloyd is easier than ever with a new monthly payment option. Click here for more information. Thank you in advance for your support and to the members who have helped us through these times.
