

LLOYD
LIBRARY & MUSEUM

Spring has sprung! We are enjoying the much-needed weather change and looking forward to clearer skies ahead. Plan your next walk, listen to the newest installment of the Dear Elizabeth podcast series or attend a virtual event with native garden designers. You can also peruse our new book titles to inspire your spring reading list.

Ephemeral Blooms in Burnet Woods

April 24
Nature Walk

Join Dr. Rama Kasturi on April 24 from 10-11 a.m. at Burnet Woods, Brookline entrance, for a spring excursion. Dr. Kasturi will lead the group through the park and its trails identifying blooming flower species and trees, and explain the various healthful benefits of nature. Only a few spaces are left! Reservations required. back centuries, but we invite you to stop in and see some of our newest books! Whether your interests are gardening, ethnobotany, natural medicine or anything in between, our new book shelf includes these topics and more. Some are featured in the upcoming issue of our magazine Lloydiana, delivered to your door as a benefit of membership. For safety reasons, visitors are limited to 2 groups of 1-4 people per group at a time. Click here to schedule an appointment.
