Incredible Insects Exhibition Opening in June

It's not just about plants at the Lloyd Library. Beginning June 11, Incredible Insects: Four Centuries of Entomology turns the spotlight on illustrated works on insects dating from 1634 to the early 20th century. Depicting habitat, anatomy and metamorphosis, this exhibition includes items from the collection of John Thomas Lloyd, son of founder John Uri Lloyd, who received a Ph.D. in Entomology from Cornell University.

Coming Soon: The Cicada Room

Experience the sounds of cicadas, a photo exhibition by Dr. Gene Kritsky, and cicada-inspired artist books from members of the Cincinnati Book Arts Society in the Lloyd's Cicada Room. Along with the Incredible Insects exhibition, the Cicada Room will be open for visitors from June 11 to August 4.
