

LLOYD

LIBRARY & MUSEUM

Our Fellows and Artists-in-Residence bring much to the Lloyd community--from the exhibits and lectures to the discoveries they make in our collections. This September, we are excited to showcase the work of Artist-in-Residence, Melissa Haviland, and Fellow, Madeline DeDe-Panken. Interested in participating in this program? Applications are open now for 2022 Fellows and Artists-in-Residence.

Flourish Exhibition Opening

When: Friday, September 10, 5-6 p.m. and 6-7 p.m.

Where: Lloyd Library & Museum

In early 2020, Melissa Haviland, artist-printmaker from Athens, Ohio, came to the Lloyd to research our collections in preparation for her project, Flourish. The resulting exhibition runs September 10 through November 20 and features screen prints installed on wallpaper, reflecting her research into early travel and botanical illustrations with a focus on cash crops.

This ticketed opening event offers time slots at 5 p.m. and 6 p.m. with reduced capacity. Masks are required and will be available at the door. Registration Required.

We're spotlighting one of the books that inspired artist-in-residence Melissa Haviland's upcoming exhibition at the Lloyd. Timothy Sheldrake's circa 1768 work Botanicum Medicinale brings together not only information on plants used in medicine of the time, but 118 hand-colored engravings of these plants. One of Haviland's pieces is a screen print based on Sheldrake's radish illustration (Plate 82) pictured here. The entire book has been digitized from the Lloyd's copy, and is available to view here through the Biodiversity Heritage Library online resource.

Negotiating the Fungus Fad

When: Wednesday, September 22, 7-8 p.m.

Where: Virtual Lecture

Mushrooms are hot today, but did you know they also were 100 years ago? Join 2020 Curtis Gates Lloyd Fellow, doctoral candidate in history, Madeline

DeDe-Panken to investigate the interactions between the scholarly mycological community and those engaged in the "fungus fad" at the turn of the 20th century. DeDe-Panken uncovered fascinating insights and a unique window into this period of time through Lloyd co-founder Curtis Gates Lloyd's mycological correspondence. Registration Required.
