

LLOYD
LIBRARY & MUSEUM

History is all around us, near and far. The Lloyd supports a focus on both local and global history through our upcoming programs and exhibits. Whether visual art and design or science and medicine, the past informs the present for the future.

The Medicinal Heritage and Ethnohistory of Mustard

When: Wednesday, September 14, 7-8 p.m.
Where: In person at the Lloyd Library and also offered virtually

For centuries, mustard has been used by cultures around the world for its medicinal properties and in ritual and religious practices. Its culinary aspects--greens and seed--position it as the world's most popular condiment. Join 2022 Lloyd Fellow Kevin Grace's journey on all things mustard across the globe and throughout history. Registration required.

Printmaking Day at the Lloyd

When: Saturday, September 17, 12-4 p.m.
Where: Lloyd Library

Cincinnati has a rich history as a publishing center. Celebrate this tradition and bookmaking through an afternoon of activities. While you're here, explore 50 unique and handmade artist books in our current exhibition, Wild/LIFE.

Make your own botanical postcard using a press and image from the Lloyd's botanical collection between 12-2 p.m. and 3-4 p.m. No reservations required.

From 2-3 p.m., Jacob Simpson of the Cincinnati Type & Print Museum guides you through the Queen City's illustrious past in his lecture The History of Printing in Greater Cincinnati. Registration required.

A Photographic Window into the Past

Six photo albums created in the 1890s by library co-founder Curtis Gates Lloyd are snapshots of a world far removed from today. As part of our mission, the Lloyd preserves treasures from the past and makes them visible and accessible. Recently conserved, you will have an opportunity to see these albums next month in our upcoming exhibition Visions of Nature across Time and Place, as part of the 2022 FotoFocus Biennial: World Record.

We're Back on Instagram!

If you've missed us on Instagram the past few weeks, we are back with new account! You can find the Lloyd's official Instagram @lloydlibraryofficial. Our feed is better than ever and will feature all of your favorites, including #stumpthelloyd, #mycologymonday and bountiful, beautiful botanical illustrations.

The Lloyd Library will be closed on September 5
in observance of Labor Day
