LIBRARY & MUSEUM

We're gearing up for our new exhibition, A Foray into Fungi, as we say goodbye to The Mighty Deep. Thanks to all those who visited during its run, and keep your calendar open for a brand new program schedule. We'd also like to take a moment to express our appreciation for those who contribute to the Lloyd, whether it be through a membership, a major gift, or another way.

Lloyd Legacies

Dr. Ronald L. Stuckey, 1938-2022

Our late great friend and internationally recognized authority on the identification and geographic distribution of aquatic and wetland plants in North America, Dr. Ronald L. Stuckey, continues to impress us with his generosity. Besides donating his archives and financial support for them over the years, Dr. Stuckey also included the Lloyd in his estate plan. Read more about Dr. Stuckey's life, accomplishments, and legacy here.

Colors from the Archives

Lloyd Fellow Brad Bolman shows a visitor a color palette from the archival collections of library co-founder Curtis Gates Lloyd. These color swatches were developed by Lloyd in the late 19th or early 20th century to help identify fungi. As part of their research here, Lloyd Fellows bring items from our collection to light, sparking inspiration for future exhibitions and research.

How Fun is Fungi?

Hot off the press and heading for the Lloyd shop! Our custom-made pocket notebooks are not only handy, but make a great gift for the fungi-lover. These feature water-resistant covers, artwork from Sarah Price's 1864 hand-colored illustrations, and graph paper pages to capture notes and sketches. Pick up one of each design when they debut at our opening reception on August 11.
