

LLOYD
LIBRARY & MUSEUM

In-person programs are selling out faster than ever. To meet the growing demand, we are offering several alternatives, starting with virtual programs. Join speakers from home or wherever you are. Higher audience capacity in webinars reduces the chance of not getting a seat. Listen to our podcast, Between the Leaves, and YouTube channel for interviews and recordings with speakers from our popular programs. Additionally, visits to the Lloyd to use our collections or view our exhibits require no reservations.

New Building Rendering Offers Expanded Program Space

The Lloyd Library is now in the next phase of architectural design. The latest renderings feature a celadon-colored exterior. An expanded event space, as pictured here to the right of our existing building, will more than double our program capacity and serve as a venue for community gatherings. Between the beauty of the new building and the many resources it can make easily available, the new Lloyd Library and Museum is sure to be a community asset.

Waitlist Available for Lloyd Programs

Our next two programs, Wild Mushrooms: A World of Wonder at Your Feet with Walt Sturgeon (pictured) and Fungus on the Brain: The Fascinating World of Psilocybin with Theresa Culley have sold out at record speed! We're now offering a waitlist for up to 10 registrants that automatically sends a notification if a spot opens up. Remember, Members hear first about
