Saving All Flowers from Extinction

When: Wednesday, January 17, 5-7 p.m.
Where: Lloyd Library

About 45% of all plant species are facing the threat of extinction from habitat loss, unsustainable use, and climate change. Join Valerie Pence, Director of Plant Research at the Center for Conservation and Research of Endangered Wildlife (CREW) at the Cincinnati Zoo & Botanical Garden to learn about cryobiotechnologies--the conservation of plant tissues at extremely low temperatures. When seed banking isn't an option, this method ensures preservation of endangered plant species for the future.

FotoFocus Grant Received for Photo Essay

Great news for 2024! The Lloyd received a grant from FotoFocus for the production and installation of Madeleine Hordinski's photo essay The Lore of the Pawpaw and supporting programs for next fall's FotoFocus Biennial. This photo essay will feature Ohio's official native fruit, as Hordinski combines her vibrant photography with research on the local, global, and cultural impact of this fascinating fruit.

It's Not Too Late...

There's still time to give to our first-ever year-end appeal in support of the Lloyd's greatest needs. Our annual fund supports the Lloyd's reference services, the preservation of our collection, and the expansion of our educational offerings for the community. In addition, you can double your gift! Thanks to a generous challenge match from an anonymous donor, all donations received up through midnight on December 31, 2023, will be doubled up to a total of $25,000.

Make your donation here to help us meet our challenge match, and Happy Holidays from all of us at the Lloyd Library & Museum.
