

LLOYD

LIBRARY & MUSEUM

With Valentine's Day coming up, we're feeling the love here at the Lloyd-- from our sold-out programs to engagement with researchers, exhibit visitors and through our social media platforms. Whether you're near or far, our upcoming virtual program below is sure to be fascinating. If you're local, stop in to see the Flora Mania exhibition, now through April 20.

The Flowering Times, They Are A'Changin'

When: February 21, 7-8 p.m

Where: Virtual Program

Climate change is affecting many aspects of our lives, especially with our world's greenspaces. How are flowers responding to these environmental effects? Kellen Callinger-Yoak of The Ohio State University will explain how these extreme weather changes affect our flowering plants. Registration required.

New Book on African American Herbalism

In honor of Black History Month, it's a great time to share one of our newest acquisitions, African American Herbalism: A Practical Guide to Healing Plants and Folk Traditions by holistic esthetician and educator Lucretia VanDyke. This informative and insightful illustrated book strengthens the Lloyd's collections as part of a body of work bridging African healing traditions with those in the Americas. For more on the role of plants in the African diaspora, watch for an upcoming program by our 2023 Artist-in-Residence Mark Harris.

Donation from the Library of Dr. Robert Krueger

The Lloyd received a donation of books from the library of the late Dr. Robert Krueger (pictured), Professor in the College of Pharmacy at Ferris State University in Big Rapids, Michigan. Dr. Krueger served as treasurer to the American Society of Pharmacognosy Foundation and was a long-serving member of the American Chemical Society. A special thank-you to Beth Krueger for considering the Lloyd for this donation with its focus on the intersection of plant science and health science.
