The Flowering Times, They Are A‘Changin’

*When: February 21, 7-8 p.m
Where: Virtual Program*

Climate change is affecting many aspects of our lives, especially with our world’s greenspaces. How are flowers responding to these environmental effects? Kellen Callinger-Yoak of The Ohio State University will explain how these extreme weather changes affect our flowering plants. Registration required.
Hear Plant Experts on Cincinnati Edition

Valerie Pence, speaker at the Lloyd's recent Saving All Flowers from Extinction program, joins other experts from the Cincinnati Zoo & Botanical Garden, Turner Farm Community Garden, and the Campbell County Extension Office on WVXU's Cincinnati Edition. Listen in on topics from preventing plant extinction to winter seed starting.

Lloyd Librarians Featured on Outdoor Life

Lloyd Librarians Erin Campbell and Patrick Ford made their first appearance on WMKV's Outdoor Life radio show with host and naturalist Carol Mundy. Catch the conversation on the Flora Mania exhibition and more here.
