Lloyd Library Collection

Abstract: The Nursery & Seed Catalog Collection consists of numerous catalogs to commercial tree nurseries and flower gardens from across the United States. The bulk years for these dates are from early to mid-twentieth century.

Arrangement: Arranged alpha-numerically.

Provenance: Anecdotal evidence suggests that the collection began with Lloyd Library founder Curtis Gates Lloyd. Among his personal correspondence files are letters to and from companies such as A. Henderson & Co. in Chicago and Barr & Son in London. He was buying plants for his property in Crittenden, Kentucky and seemed to prefer flowering plants, purchasing large quantities of peonies from Brand Peony Farms in Faribault, Minnesota, gladiolus from A.E. Kunderd in Goshen, Indiana, and roses, lilies, and irises from Bobbink & Atkins of Rutherford, New Jersey. He corresponded with and purchased plants from John Lewis Childs in Long Island, New York from 1913 to 1925. Lloyd ordered so many plants that Brand Peony Farms thought he was a commercial dealer in the peony business. Librarian Corinne Miller Simons began adding her personal nursery catalogs to the collection beginning in the 1940s and additionally acquired many catalogs from A.E. Curtis, a Cincinnati poppy and iris enthusiast.

COLLECTION DESCRIPTION

Biographical History:

Curtis Gates Lloyd (1859-1926) – Lloyd was one of the founders of the Lloyd Library and Museum. Lloyd was excused from the company he started with his brothers, Lloyd Brothers Pharmacists, Inc. to pursue travel and researching fungi and botany. On these travels, he collected books for his research and for his brothers' interests, and to add to their growing library. Learn more about Lloyd from his finding aid: <https://lloydlibrary.org/wp-content/uploads/2021/05/Curtis-Gates-Lloyd-Papers-Finding-Aid.pdf>.

Corinne Miller Simons (c.1904-1978) – Simmons was a long-standing librarian at the Lloyd Library and Museum. At the Lloyd, she began working as an assistant librarian in 1938. In 1953, she became the head librarian and held that position before retiring in 1972. In her spare time, she was an avid gardener.

A.E. Curtis (1874-1968) - Arthur. E. Curtis was an artist and attended the Cincinnati Art Academy before opening his own studio providing fine printing and book binding services. Along with his first wife, Jessie, they were known as renowned growers of oriental poppies, and created hybrid strains of flowers in their home garden in College Hill. Mr. Curtis contributed to the gardening sections of many local newspapers with advice on poppies, irises, and perennials.
