

In this issue, we highlight connections outside our walls that trace back to the Lloyd, from houseplants to herbalism. Plus, our new exhibition American Medicine at a Crossroads is now open! Plan your visit to see a window in time of medical change and upheaval--out of which came the Lloyd Library & Museum!

Joe Gardener Talks Herbalism with Rosemary Gladstar

Noted herbalist, author, and longtime friend of the Lloyd, Rosemary Gladstar, visits the Joe Gardener Show podcast with Joe Lamp'l. Gladstar personifies decades of expertise and energy--from her first herb store to the founding of the California School of Herbal Studies and the many books she's written. In this interview, Gladstar even takes time to give a shout-out to the Lloyd and its collection. Listen in on this conversation at the intersection of gardening and herbal medicine.

Victorian Houseplants on History.com

During our recent houseplant-themed exhibition Welcome to My Jungle, we took a deep dive into the history of indoor gardening, especially during the Victorian era. Past Lloyd Fellow, journalist, and professor of ethics Elizabeth Yuko recently explored the topic with a fascinating and informative article on History.com. See how houseplants changed domestic culture ever since, including insights from our own Lloyd librarian Patrick Ford and past Lloyd Fellow and UCLA

American Medicine at a Crossroads Exhibition Opens to Excitement

Enthusiastic attendees crowded this past Friday's reception for the opening of American Medicine at a Crossroads. This exhibition brings together the figures, movements, and even artifacts documenting the changing landscape of health and wellness. Starting in Ancient Greece and landing in Cincinnati, you won't want to miss this unique exhibit featuring items never before on display.

Nature's Pharmacy Sold Out

Due to overwhelming demand, our August 13 program Nature's Pharmacy with Mladen Golubić has sold out. To accommodate as many attendees as possible, we're excited to pilot a new overflow space where additional guests can view a live stream of the event and still be part of this special evening. As our programs continue to grow in popularity, we're always looking for new ways to share them with more people within the limits of our space!

There's lots more opportunities to connect with our programs in the upcoming months. Keep an eye out for a three-part virtual lecture series by historian John S. Haller, Jr. beginning in September and focusing on 19th-century medical movements.
