The Botany of Wines

When: Wednesday, April 8, 7-8 p.m.
Where: Lloyd Library & Museum

Join Miami University Professor Emeritus and wine expert Jack Keegan to explore wine through a botanical lens! Plants, place, and natural systems influence what ends up in the glass, as grapes, growing environments, and the quiet role of other flora shape flavor and character.

The Lloyd Receives AHPA Award

The American Herbal Products Association recently awarded The Lloyd the 2026 AHPA Service to Herbal Knowledge Award. This award recognizes individuals or organizations that have made outstanding contributions to the advancement of botanical education and the preservation of herbal information for the industry and the public. Renowned herbalist and long-time friend of The Lloyd David

The Ginger Ale Connection

When curating exhibits, we never know what we'll find in our shelves and archives. During The Botany of Beverages exhibition research, we discovered an early advertisement in the Chicago Tribune giving credit for the "inimitable flavor" of Canada Dry Golden Ginger Ale to none other than our co-founder John Uri Lloyd, "a leading authority on botanical chemistry." As an inventor alongside his many other titles (author, chemist, instructor, etc.), Lloyd designed and patented an apparatus to reliably capture the delicate ginger flavor, earning it the top-secret, closely-guarded treatment described in this peek into the past.
